These 155-millimeter guns, made by France for use by the American army, are being hauled by a motorcar from the Parc de Prince, St. Cloud, France, to an American artillery camp.

WOMEN DRIVERS FEAR TOO MUCH

Fair Motorist Expresses Opinion That They Lack Confidence in Themselves.

DRIVING IS STATE OF MIND

Many Know What to Do Under Practically All Conditions and Still Fail to Do It—Best Nerve Tonic in the World.

As has been said about worry—namely, that most of one's troubles never happen—so the fear that a woman has in driving a car is not so much that as it is the fear of being afraid. At least that is the opinion of a well-known woman motorist.

"From my own experience and the experience of other women to whom I have talked about the subject, I believe the most difficult thing a woman has to overcome in learning to drive a car is not to be afraid of being afraid," says this expert woman driver. "Probably this sounds a little complicated, and an easier way to say it would be that women as a whole, I believe, lack confidence in themselves to handle the unexpected, should the unexpected occur."

Easy to Handle Car.

"A lot has been said about driving. Much advice has been offered as to what to do and what not to do. I believe that good driving is simply a state of mind and that as soon as any one discovers how easy it is to handle a car and how near an impossibility it is for an emergency to arise that cannot be met with little effort, when the simple mechanics of the modern car is mastered, she has learned about all there is to know in order to drive a car."

"Of course one might know what to do under practically all conditions, and still not do it. Here is where lots of women fall as good drivers; their fear of doing the wrong thing is so great that they do nothing at all."

Material Benefits.

"I have yet to see any woman who has not been materially benefited by driving. The fresh air, the co-ordination of eye, mind and muscle, the exhilaration of feeling that you are master of the powerful and yet tractable motor, and that it will answer your every whim, cannot help but have a beneficial effect on the nerves. In fact, I firmly believe that driving is the best nerve tonic in the world."

"I have driven my car over thousands of miles of all kinds of roads—boulevards, deserts and mountains. The fact that I have never had an accident of any kind adds a lot to the sum total of my pleasure, of course, but I know that even had I experienced a lot of trouble I would not sacrifice for a great deal the actual gain in health and the joy of driving that I have experienced in my car."

ATTENTION TO SPRING SEATS

They Should Be Oiled, or If Grease Cup Is Provided, It Should Be Turned Up Often.

Movable spring seats which are used in some cars should receive periodic attention. They should be oiled, or if a grease cup is provided, as is usually the case, it should be turned up every few days. In springs of the cantilever type it is necessary to give the fulcrum joint periodic attention.

CARING FOR RADIATOR CAPS

Practice of Using It to Push Cars Back Is Dangerous as It Is Liable to Be Broken.

When it is necessary to back a car into place by pushing the first thing on which most drivers settle is the radiator cap. This is rather a dangerous practice, for the exertion of such heavy pressure against this part is quite likely to break it off.

DOCTOR URGED AN OPERATION

Instead I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Was Cured.

Baltimore, Md.—"Nearly four years I suffered from organic troubles, nervousness and headaches and every month would have to stay in bed most of the time. Treatments would relieve me for a time but my doctor was always urging me to have an operation. My sister asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before consenting to an operation. I took five bottles of it and it has completely cured me and my work is a pleasure. I tell all my friends who have any trouble of this kind what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me."—NELLIE B. BURTON, 609 Calverton Rd., Baltimore, Md.

It is only natural for any woman to dread the thought of an operation. So many women have been restored to health by this famous remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, after an operation has been advised that it will pay any woman who suffers from such ailments to consider trying it before submitting to such a trying ordeal.

SAW OMEN IN HAWTHORNES

Red Berries Growing in Place of White Had Deep Significance for This Irishman.

Even the humor of Ireland is given a new hue by the war. Nothing escapes its influence. Two of us were seeing a bit of Dublin from the vantage point offered by a jaunty car. And no Irishman is more filled with the effervescent spirit of the old sod than the "garry" driver of Dublin.

We crossed the river Liffey—a river once fragrant with the fragrance of a desirable. Now it is spic and span. The driver made comment. "Sure, is usen't to be so classic," he said, with a brogue as broad as the clean-swept walk along the now "classic" bank. "They'll be catchin' salmon in the Liffey yet, it's that clean an' swale now."

We passed a square, all blooming with hawthornes. "Now look," said our driver, philosopher and guide. "The hawthornes are all red this year. I'm thinkin' it's an omen. They've been white in other years, but this year they're all red. Sure it's an omen. I don't know what it means, but it's an omen o' some kind."

His tone was lugubrious, but his melodious rounding of the turns in his pronunciation was delightful. The blooms were red—and, omen or no omen, they were beautiful.

The eyes of a South American fish are divided into two parts, the upper being adapted for vision in the air, the lower for use under the water.

The work-or-fight order should also be followed with the slogan "give or go."

Up Against It.

"This daylight saving scheme is rough on the hapless young fellow who goes courting."

"How so?"

"He hasn't the nerve to drop around until it gets dark, and then it's time to go home."

Talkative people seldom say much, but as long as they think they do they are happy.

One thing that has saved many a man from hanging is the fact that the jury did.

Easy to figure the Profits

Where in Western Canada you can buy at from $15 to $30 per acre good farm land that will raise 20 to 45 bushels to the acre of $2 wheat—its easy to figure the profits. Many Western Canadian farmers (scores of them from the U. S.) have paid for their land from a single crop. Such an opportunity for 100% profit on labor and investment is worth investigation.

Canada extends to you a hearty invitation to settle on her

Are the Packers Profiteers?

Plain Facts About the Meat Business

The Federal Trade Commission in its recent report on war profits, stated that the five large meat packers have been profiteering and that they have a monopoly of the market.

These conclusions, if fair and just, are matters of serious concern not only to those engaged in the meat packing business but to every citizen of our country.

The figures given on profits are misleading and the statement that the packers have a monopoly is unsupported by the facts.

The packers mentioned in the report stand ready to prove their profits reasonable and necessary.

The meat business is one of the largest American industries. Any citizen who would familiarize himself with its details must be prepared for large totals.

The report states that the aggregate profits of four large packers were $140,000,000 for the three war years.

This sum is compared with $19,000,000 as the average annual profit for the three years before the war, making it appear that the war profit was $121,000,000 greater than the pre-war profit.

This compares a three-year profit with a one-year profit—a manifestly unfair method of comparison. It is not only misleading, but the Federal Trade Commission apparently has made a mistake in the figures themselves.

The aggregate three-year profits of $140,000,000 was earned on sales of over four and a half billion dollars. It means about three cents on each dollar of sales—or a mere fraction of a cent per pound of product.

Packers' profits are a negligible factor in prices of live stock and meats. No other large business is conducted upon such small margins of profit.

Furthermore—and this is very important—only a small portion of this profit has been paid in dividends. The balance has been put back into the businesses. It had to be, as you realize when you consider the problems the packers have had to solve—and solve quickly—during these war years.

To conduct this business in war times, with higher costs and the necessity of paying two or three times the former prices for live stock, has required the use of two or three times the ordinary amount of working capital. The additional profit makes only a fair return on this, and as has been stated, the larger portion of the profits earned has been used to finance huge stocks of goods and to provide additions and improvements made necessary by the enormous demands of our army and navy and the allies.

If you are a business man you will appreciate the significance of these facts. If you are unacquainted with business, talk this matter over with some business acquaintance—with your banker, say—and ask him to compare profits of the packing industry with those of any other large industry at the present time.

No evidence is offered by the Federal Trade Commission in support of the statement that the large packers have a monopoly. The Commission's own report shows the large number and importance of other packers.

The packers mentioned in the statement stand ready to prove to any fair-minded person that they are in keen competition with each other, and that they have no power to manipulate prices.

If this were not true they would not dare to make this positive statement.

Furthermore, government figures show that the five large packers mentioned in the report account for only about one-third of the meat business of the country.

They wish it were possible to interest you in the details of their business. Of how, for instance, they can sell dressed beef for less than the cost of the live animal, owing to utilization of by-products, and of the wonderful story of the methods of distribution throughout this broad land, as well as in other countries.

The five packers mentioned feel justified in co-operating with each other to the extent of together presenting this public statement.

They have been able to do a big job for your government in its time of need; they have met all war time demands promptly and completely and they are willing to trust their case to the fairness of the American people with the facts before them.

"I do not understand in the least Robert!" said Miss Mackay.
When Louise Mackay called him by his full name in this tone of voice, Bob Murray usually backed down at once. But this time he felt amply supported by the facts in the case.
"Tut sorry, Louise," he said with apparent distress. "Of course if I had known you were upon this special Santa Fe train nothing would have induced me to get on at the last station. Just because my business demands that I should reach Chicago instantly would not have counted in the least, and I should cheerfully have waited over a day in that charming Kansas village—the hottest, most glaringly isolated spot of paralyzed nothingness I ever struck."

By this time Miss Mackay was repenting her attack on him. She felt she could easily be accused of taking too much for granted.

The beautiful face beneath the severe traveling hat flushed. She even managed a smile.

"Don't be absurd, Bob," she said politely. "But of course—your suddenly appearing out of nowhere—and in a situation where I couldn't escape you—and after I had told you—"

Mr. Murray with one motion picked up his traveling bag and moved into the vacant seat beside the girl.

"You didn't think for a minute, did you," he began, calmly, "that because you refused to marry me when I asked you a month ago in Frisco, adding the kindly afterthought that Stood Watching.

I was to stop bothering you and keep out of your sight unless sent for, that I was going to spend the rest of my life skulking in the tall timber dodging you? Just because you think you don't care for me is no—"

She drew herself up stiffly.
"There was nothing haphazard about my decision," she said coldly. "I am quite sure I don't like you well enough to marry you. As you won't be just friends, there was no course open to me but to ask you to stay away."

She sighed as she looked at him, for Bob Murray was a well favored, manly fellow. Then she turned her head sharply and gazed out on the overcast prairie with their scorching crops drooping in the heat.

"As I was saying," went on Mr. Murray imperturbably, "your whimsical idea that we were not made for each other in nowise interferes with my intention of showing you where you err."

The shoulder nearest him shrugged expressively, the visible ear turned wrathfully pink. Mr. Murray grinned, then grew serious. It is no laughing matter when the girl of your heart tells you pointblank you are mistaken as to the state of her emotions.

What new line of attack he opened his mouth to make no one ever knew, for of a sudden the hum and thump of the car, and the silence of the weary passengers were broken by a scurry and rush towards the rear door.

With one accord Murray and Miss Mackay also jumped to their feet. The cause of the excitement needed no explanatory words.

Coming after them, exactly down the track, whirling, lifting, dipping, was a black, funnel-shaped cloud. It was miles away, but nearing rapidly.

With what looked like diabolical cunning it persistently kept to the track. There was one instant of horrified silence, and then the passengers were crazy in a few minutes.

Like penned rats in a trap they fought for doors and windows, but conductor and brakemen locked the exits, and the speed of the train effectually discouraged the window route.

The engineer had seen the danger and opened the throttle wide; the train whirled and humped over the ties with such the same motion as the death-dealing black cloud chasing it.

After the first shock Murray instinctively drew closer to the girl. Her face had turned quite white, her lips were tightly pressed together.

Amid the screaming, frantic woman she stood seemingly dazed staring with fascinated eyes at the whirling demon in their wake. If it caught them, it meant death, nothing less. Every ounce of steam was on, yet their pace seemed agonizingly slow. The cloud was gaining on them.

With a quick impulse Murray crushed both her limp hands in his own, and she turned frightened eyes to his compelling ones. There was a certain solemnity about his face which was new and impressive.

"Louise!" He spoke low and fast. In the confusion nobody paid the slightest attention to them; they could not have been more alone had they stood in the middle of the gray desert far back on the Santa Fe line or on one of the lonely mountain peaks long since passed.

The situation had become instantly primal. There was but a man, a woman and the warring elements of the air.

"Louise," he said, "be honest with me now—it can't matter much one way or the other—from the looks of things there aren't many more minutes left for either of us—but tell me, dear, honestly—don't you really care for me? Didn't you intend to tell me yes finally—after you had humbled me sufficiently?"

As this was a most accurate guess at Miss Mackay's intention, though she had never admitted it even to herself, she turned instantly angry at being discovered. For a second she forgot the cyclone, and her eyes flashed as she wrenched away her hands.

"You are conceited and—impatient!" she gasped, keeping her balance with difficulty in the swaying car.

"How dare you assume I love you?" "I don't assume," flashed back Mr. Murray sternly. "I know it! But you are too proud to give it! And now—and now you'll never have the chance!"

With a start the girl looked out at the rear door again, recalled to their danger, and the sight she saw sent her blindly groping for shelter, her superb nerve at last shattered.

As Murray put both arms around her and shut her eyes against his shoulder, there was both desperation and victory in his expression.

For the ugly roar of the thing pursuing them was drowning out all other sounds; the whole world outside the rocking, throbbing train had grown dim and black.

"Tell me," he whispered to her commandingly.

Her trembling hand crept round his neck.

"Oh, yes, yes!" she sobbed. "I was wicked—why—why didn't I tell you before? And now—"

"Don't look!" Murray cried sharply as she raised her head.

He shut his own eyes and waited the bare instant for the end of other things. There was the sudden silence of utter terror in the reeling car full of doomed human beings.

But nothing happened, absolutely nothing. When Murray opened his eyes again, wondering, the whirling cloud was gone.

At a rise in the track it had leaped, swerved, and taken a sharp tangent, abandoning the prey just in its clutch and roaring its way south across the open country.

The engine stopped the next minute at the little station of Honey Creek, and the crew and passengers staggered out into the open air with dazed, white faces.

Murray and Louise Mackay stood watching the disappearance of the cyclone in the distance. Then he looked at her, and as he remembered and marveled at her happiness, she turned towards him a face on which there was a mingling of treacherous thankfulness, exasperation, and helpless surrender.

"I believe," she said, half laughing, half crying, as her hands clasped his, "I believe, Robert, the whole affair was a sham you arranged on purpose, and pressed a button or something when you were done with it!"

"Of course!" agreed the irrepressible Mr. Murray.

Pretty Indoor Plant.

Perhaps nothing gives such brightness and good cheer to a room—next to a sunny window—us a pot of wandering Jew hanging in the window. The trailing stems with their tiny, almost transparent leaves, are exquisitely lovely against a sunny background, and wandering Jew costs almost nothing, demands almost no care at all, and will grow anywhere, if it has a little sunlight.

It will grow in water as well as in dirt, and astonishing in the speed it makes in growing; long, trailing stems will begin to droop over the side of the pot in no time, and before you know it there is fairly an umbrella of green falling from your hanging receptacle.

It may be grown in a glass bowl or water hung from a hook, high in the window; or the bowl may be set on a bracket where the sunlight will fall across it; or the plant may be grown in soil, in an ordinary flower pot on the window ledge or on a small plant stand set in the sunshine.

Every home should have a pot of wandering Jew growing luxuriantly during the months of autumn, winter and spring.

Orateful Relief.

"I suppose my old friend, the bartender, is rather gloomy since Crimmon Ginch went prohibition."

"Not a bit," replied Brereton Bob. "He's as pleased as a fish. He said he was pum' tired of steyn' up all night an' bel' the only sober man in the crowd."

HOW SNAKES HELP FARMER

Man Who Knows Points Out How Valuable to the Tiller of the Soil Are Their Services.

Snakes are a valuable asset and there should be a campaign against killing them, writes Gayne T. K. Norton, in the American Forestry Magazine. The article goes on to show what the snake does for food conservation by ways of killing rodents and insects, the greatest enemies to grain that man knows. The public has become acquainted with snakes as never before, writes Mr. Norton, because of the thousands who have been engaged in the campaign for war gardens that has been conducted by the national emergency food garden commission. "With this summer the millions of war gardens have given the snake popular interest. Tremendously increased illage has brought people and snakes together.

"Hence, much education work is done the number of snakes that will be killed next year by the well-meaning but misinformed gardeners will be very large. Our snakes are a national asset worth many millions of dollars and should be conserved. The relation they bear to successful crops is important—more important than even the average farmer realizes."

SOLDIER'S LETTER

"Somewhere in France"

My dear Mother—
Today broke fine and I know how faithfully you will be watching the mail box so I am going to write you on the same day of each week so that you can look for a letter each week.

The company is still at what is known as a rest camp and we have had to do practically nothing outside of regular camp duties. However, we have had two interesting hikes out in the countryside on either side of the road which compares favorably with our own is planted with all sorts of plants, flowers, grass and the other vegetables which we plant at home and every bit of the work is done by the French women from the ploughing to the harvesting.

All the young fellows are so busy you can imagine what prices have been "through" without so much as a word. The French people never boast after a big victory, if you compliment them they just say, "merci"—thank you. The boys of the company are in excellent condition and are all over here, but if a Frenchman were to go to Boston and see the men chewing gum or tobacco or expostulating like they do in the States they would be shocked for a Frenchman never chews of "spits" in company.

The weather is reasonably good here but very cold at night and I have slept in my clothes the last four nights. I sure dread the winter, but after it will start in I will like it as you know the good times we had skating on the Mill Pond and sleighing.

Observation balloons pass over our camp frequently, occasionally an air ship. People of this age think this war is a terrible war, but centuries ago when they used to fight with stone bullets thought the same way when the bow and arrow was invented, then later on when gun powder was invented the people thought it was a terrible outrage and then it brings us to the present day when gas has been invented and death bombs, used of course in each case with the other side don't adopt the same tactics. So we hear now that the Germans are inventing some kind of a machine gun that they are preparing to use. So it only goes to show that it seems to come well that our present day warfare mild compared to what they will be fighting with the same tactics. So we hear now pointing out the French that I took up at Rindge M. T. S. has helped me out considerably.

I met John Craig and Mary Young of the Castle Square Book Company down here last Saturday night just before the show they put on and we had quite a pleasant talk. They played, "The Circus Girl" in the Y. M. C. A. for us and they were fine.

He has one son up at the front and one that was killed in action and a daughter is working in the canteen run by the Y. M. C. A.

I understand Harry Lauder is doing the same for the English army.

I am feeling fine and our Company played ball against another company yesterday and we won handily about 10-0.

The cats are very good here but O.K. for some of your hot biscuits in the morning. In the evening here the boys get together and sing and have a chat until dark, a funny thing here it doesn't get dark until after ten o'clock and there are ten in one tent and we talk ourselves to sleep at night.

Well Mr. I hope you and the folks are all well and enjoying the pleasures of life. I wonder if you will have your customary Lawn Party this 4th of July on the hill and I hope you will have me and pitch it anywhere you want.

Give my best wishes to all and I am waiting patiently to hear from you.

Your devoted son, HEBER

SOLDIER'S LETTER

Dear Sister Anna—

I guess it is about time I wrote you. Even if I do not write very often, I still think of you and baby niece; also Teddy. I am feeling fine. I have heard from Mimi that you have not been feeling well; hope this letter finds you all well and kicking. How is the new house? I hope you are all well and have the moving back at present. The last letter I had from Mimi said her next address would be at the beach.

Also Frank's last letter was a move from the States—over here. I would love to see him, but never expect to, while over here. We have had some of April's papers from Boston and see what they have to say about the boys over here. They have gone through some tough stuff, but they are as hard as nails and are just as full of spirit as the day they came over. There is no such thing as getting used to shells; but the Dough boys can tell you just about where they are going to land. At present we are in no immediate danger, as we go up in daylight and are back behind the lines at night. Once in a while the Boches try to get our boys by dropping a few over, but only one so far—in the day I thought are they had my address. That day they dropped a few in an orchard through which we had to go to get to a dug-out. I tried twice to make it, but each time a little one came tearing over and either made a hole like a grave or took a side of a wall. After that a few shells were sent sailing over our heads and we were well on our way by that time.

The papers here said that was about as tough a time as there has been at a hand combat. A couple of weeks ago we were in a trench and were in a hole like a grave or took a side of a wall. After that a few shells were sent sailing over our heads and we were well on our way by that time.

all that cared to attend. The Salvation Army and Red Cross had two services. There was a collection taken up about a week before and I think between that and four dollars was collected for the work of this country. I will try and get a picture of it from some one and send it over; also one of myself. If you have any of the kids to spare, also one of Teddy and them in your next pictures of Ted are all at home.

I recently received a letter from Susie Lineweaver that was certainly some surprise. Kitty gave her my address. I keep a steady stream of letters coming. Although I don't expect so many now that she is at the beach, I got a couple from Frankie a few days ago, and he said he was writing to you. Eddie also has sent quite a few. Also received his package of B. V. D.'s, cigars and cigarettes. At present we are pretty well off as far as smokes go, owing to the Sales Commissary, run by the Q. M. department, which at times carries a supply. Our aviators are doing fine work, but there are no aircraft men here—so much so that unless there is either an air battle or they are doing circus stunts—we never give them more than a glance. That is one branch I don't love to get into, but my chances are slim. I wouldn't even try. I hope to get a trip in one before I return as it is certainly fascinating and as good as the ground. My French is improving as good as nothing. It could be said I speak it (foolishly) fluently, but even if I were here for ten years, I could never come to the tongue. I will have a month's pay right now for one week's fringing in good old Boston, and I'd take in every show in town, both burlesque and movies. Will close with love to all and a hundred kisses to baby and Ted.

Your loving brother, JOE

HULLONIANS' HAPPY HOURS

Miss Marion Hoyt of Allerton is spending a ten days' vacation in Troy, N. Y. as the guest of her school chum, now Mrs. Joseph Farrell.

Mr. J. A. Barlow and family of Boston, have arrived and are settled in a home on Bench avenue.

Miss Agnes Fitzgerald, daughter of ex-Mayor Fitzgerald, is an ideal hostess and a very charming and gracious young lady and if she will pardon a glibulous old lady, I'll add would there were more like her. On Wednesday Miss Fitzgerald gave a whist game and progressive at her home at Windermere in aid of the Cecilia Guild of which she is president. It is a charity club and the young ladies meet to sew for poor children and mothers. Mrs. Arthur Grimes is vice-president; Miss Alice Hurley, secretary; Mrs. Mary Chase, treasurer. A most delightful time was enjoyed and a good sum realized.

Miss Fitzgerald had no house guests and a good sum realized.

Miss Sue Kant of Brooklyn and Miss Gertrude Sullivan of Boston.

The markers at the highest party were the Misses Anna and Alice.

Emma Fitzgerald, Mary Daly, Agnes Hagerty of Philadelphia, Helen Watson, Cecilia Keane.

The war sale and entertainment of the Hull Branch Special Aid was held at the clubhouse in Hull on Wednesday and was a success in every respect. The cost and commodious club lending itself tentatively to such an affair. Fuller details will be given next week.

This was a busy week all along the line.

Frank E. Wing, Jr., the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Wing of Allerton Hill, has given a surprise dancing party by 70 of his friends prior to his departure for Indianapolis, where he will enter a factory to learn the technique of automobile making. After his year of practical training he will return to enter Technology.

The program at the Old Beacon Club is July 17th, moving picture, Douglas Fairbanks in "The Fix 10"; Thursday, July 18, an address by Hon. Michael Murray of Boston and Green Hill. The subject of his address is "Our National Heritage." Mr. Murray is a splendid talker and is a pleasure to his audience. On Saturday evening the dance at 8:30 will be held as usual. Hoppe's orchestra.

War gardens seem to be flourishing on Allerton Hill and it is rumored that one charming housewife has also started in to raise war beans.

Officer Fitch has a most wonderful var garden, and when not employed directing the traffic at Allerton and otherwise preserving order, he is to be found with coat off and sleeves rolled up working industriously to produce fine vegetables. Officer Jacobs recently had a birthday but we will not say that he is "fair, fat and forty" he doesn't look it.

Mrs. Julia Reardon of the Breakers has a great many guests booked for August. The Breakers is deservedly popular. Mrs. Reardon leaves no stone unturned to add to the comforts of her guests.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Leonard of Wakefield and Hull Hill have beautiful home which they hospitably share with all their friends.

Mrs. W. W. Reddie entertained the Wives Catherine and Gertrude McCormack over the week-end. Mr. Frank Smith of Somerville is a guest for the season.

Mr. W. W. Reddie is an enthusiastic war-carbon worker.

There is a large attendance at the M. E. Church in the village each Sunday and the church is the most managed given by the Rev. Frank Kingston.

Mrs. and Mrs. Nicholas Mitchell and winehouse daughter, Barinam, arrived Monday in their usual summer visit to their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Amos Mitchell.

Mrs. Geraldine Douglas, a talented pianist, plays the organ at the M. E. Church each Sunday. Miss Douglas is a music teacher home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Douglas, for the summer.

Owing to a continuation of circumstances over which she had no control the writer did not get the big field day on Saturday and cannot fine "Aunt Nora" to learn particulars, but it was a success and everyone had a good time and a good aim was realized.

About 75 new books have been added to the library. These books are selected by the trustees: Mrs. Carrie Mitchell, Mrs. Isadore Vogel, Rev. Frank Kingston.

To show their appreciation of Rev. Frank Kingston and their sympathy with him in his accident, friends and neighbors presented him with a large purse recently. For the first time in our knowledge of him, Rev. Kingston was at a loss for words. His services to the people cannot be estimated and everyone is the better for having been fortunate enough to have listened to his eloquent expositions of the Bible and patriotic utterances. We express the sentiment of all.

The estate of Mr. Rivett on Allerton Hill is beautiful. Mr. Rivett is a public benefactor for building such beautiful and artistic houses and for laying out such beautiful grounds. Owing to lack of labor Mr. Rivett has had to spend most of his time working himself. His daughter, Mrs. Lockhart is with him and is devoted to him. It is a pleasure to witness such companionship as exists between father and daughter.

On invitation of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Hubbard, Mrs. G. Frank Scammon, Mrs. Harriet Lyon and Mrs. E. J. Stirovich were given a nice auto ride to Rockland and attended services at the Christian Science Church.

HERE AND THERE.

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Page and their family of Winchester have their home at Rivermoor for July and August.

Mr. and Mrs. George Flynn of Brookline have joined the season visitors at the cottage colony of Waveland.

Miss Eugenia McIntyre is among the prominent members of the younger set to recently arrive. She is with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Colin McIntyre, at their B street home.

William R. Dunne first quartermaster sergeant in the hospital service, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Dunne was one of the group of volunteers who gave themselves for trench fever inoculation, thus receiving a great service to humanity.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Smith of New Bedford have taken the Graystone Villa here and will open it soon if help can be secured as a first-class inn. Mrs. Smith has given personal supervision to the refitting of the house and it is most attractive.

A Jewish Children's Welfare Board has done excellent work in entertaining and caring for the Army and Navy boys over the week-end. Mrs. Axelrod has been prominent in the good work.

A unique feature of the railroad service is the presence at Rockland crossing of a man and his wife, who take turns flagging trains. They live in "the smallest house on the beach."

The new organized Red Cross meets in the veranda of Mrs. Chas. Dalley's summer home.

Our Neighbors.

Charles Lamb was one day criticizing a neighbor rather severely when his listener interposed with a protest that the judgment was mistaken, and that the critic did not really know the man. "But I don't want to know him," said Lamb. "I might get to like him." That is what might happen in a good many cases. In our stand off and condemn. The faults are not the only qualities our neighbor possesses. We might get to like him if we took the trouble to get acquainted.

NEW CABLE OFFICE OPENED

A district telegraph and cable office has been established for Hull, Nantasket, Cohasset, Hingham and Weymouth, at Hingham, with Mr. W. S. Richardson, who has long been in the employ of the Western Union Telegraph and Cable Company as manager. The office is in the new building at Hingham, opposite the railroad station. This is a great convenience to the people having boys in the service, as cables per word to enlisted men "over there" is only six cents. Mr. Richardson is also prepared to handle foreign and domestic money orders. This also is of inestimable value to parents and friends of our boys in the U. S. service.

Miss Ella Maria Bates died at her home on Beechwood street Wednesday, July 3rd, after being in poor health for about two years. Miss Bates was the daughter of the late Silas and Maria Bates, and she was born November 21, 1849. Since the death of her half-sister, Miss Georgiana, several years ago, she had lived alone in her cosy home, in half of the house where Mr. Bates was born. She was one of those who helped to keep alive by precept and example all the best ideals which have descended to us from our New England forefathers. She loved and lived for the community in which she was born and spent all her days. Only last Fall, at a period when she had rallied from her illness to a degree of former health, the C. C. happened along at her home about luncheon time. With true New England hospitality, she insisted upon the C. C.'s partaking, and a most cheerful and vivacious memory will always remain with the C. C. of that hour spent with her, who had always lived with such cheerful constancy to her ideals of faith and rectitude.

As a member of the Beechwood Congregational Church, she was an earnest worker, serving as treasurer of the church for 27 years. At the re-dedication of that church fourteen years ago, she gave the lamps which adorn the front and sides of the auditorium in memory of her sister Georgiana. Many interesting relics which denote the customs of the early settlers of our town were loaned to the collection exhibited at the Puntt Pratt Memorial Library by the Misses Ella and Georgiana Bates, some of them the handwork of their father, who went on fishing voyages from the time he was nine years old.
He was also selected in 1860.
Miss Bates' funeral was held from her home on Sunday afternoon, Rev. L. M.
Bosworth, pastor of the Beechwood Church, officiating. A quartette consisting of Mr. Chas. Heyland, Mr. Peter Shinn and Misses Louise and Alma Hey-land sang "Face to Face" and "Abide With Me." Floral tributes included a wreath from the Ladies' Aid. The bearers were Herbert L. Brown, John L.
Litchfield, Wm. Arnold and George

The marriage of Miss Mary Frances Johnson to Mr. Harry Ely Mapes was solemnized at the home of the bride, on Saturday afternoon, July 13. Rev. Wm.
C. Cole, pastor of the Unitarian church, performed the ceremony. Mr. Mapes is the present chairman of the Board of Selectmen, has been Representative from this District, and holds a most respectable position as a real estate manager of the N. Y. N. H. & Hartford Railroad for many years. Mrs. Johnson has been Pharmacist at the Cohasset Dispensary, Boston. She is the President of the Cohasset Parent-Teacher Assn. The felicitations of a host of friends will attend them in their wedded life.
The Canning Club connected with the Osgood School, started in the Bates Building again this season on Wednesday afternoon, July 17, at 2 o'clock.
In order to facilitate canvassing for the Beechwood members, those members of the club have their lessons in canning at the kitchen of Mrs. Levi Lincoln on Beechwood street and Mrs. Martha W. Bates, a member of last year's canning class, will supervise the canning with general supervision by Mrs. Harry Hall, teacher of gardening and all branches of Conservation of Farm products.

A benefit for the Record and Relief Committee of Cohasset was given by the Volunteer Firemen's Association on Wednesday evening, July 17, at the Town Hall. The entertainment was for the purpose of raising funds to carry on the good work of this committee, and that work is to aid in every possible way the Cohasset boys in the service of our country. Mr. Samuel Bates, Misses Hester and Dorothy Thier,
Miss Marion Dodge, Mr. Edwin T. Otis,
Thayer, Miss Esther Bandura, Miss Mollie Fitch, and Mr. Ralph W. Menard gave their services to make it a success. Dancing followed the entertainment.

Mr. John Bethel has bought and is occupying the home formerly occupied by the Manix family on Parker avenue.
John L. Jason, machinist mate, 1st class, is home on two weeks' leave of absence. Richard F. Grasse, who has been home on fifteen days' leave, has re-transferred from the 3rd Pioneer Infantry to the 60th Pioneer Infantry, at the same camp, Camp Vadevorth,

3rd will miss him.

Eight new pictures of our boys in service were shown on the screen last Saturday night at the movie theatre.
They were Edward Mulvey, Louis B. Mulvey, Lawrence Williams, Perry Williams,
Louis Figueroa, Wm. F. Burke, Fredrick G. Roche and Dudley Goodwin.

Those of our boys who have gone across recently from Camp Devens are and Harry Hiltz.

Chas. Fitch and Edward Mulvey were on the transport "Haverton" when released recently. No word has been received, but we trust all is well with them.
Miss Mollie Fitch starts on Thursday of this week to visit friends in various parts of Canada.
The "Musical" held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. V. Kellen last week for the benefit of the New Haven Chapter of the Red Cross, was arranged and carried out under the able management of Mr. B. Preston Clark, Jr., son of Mr.

Preston Clark, and it was endorsed by Mr. Joseph S. Bigelow, chairman of the Executive Committee of the Cohasset Branch of the Red Cross. It was very successful, $275 being netted after traveling expenses of artists were deducted. The artists were Mr. Norman
S. Donaldson, violinist, and Bruce
T. Simonds, pianist, and Miss Louise Lockwood, accompanist.

Capt. Manuel Enos, Mr. Joseph E.
Grasse and Mr. Albert Grasse had the rather uncomfortable experience, even on a summer night, of drifting helplessly around in a large power boat out in the bay on Monday night of last week, for several hours, following the engine going wrong, and the consequent failure to keep it going. They went out on a fishing cruise near Nimot's and when they started to come home, found their engine as balky as a war-time mule. Night was coming on and they were at the mercy of wind and wave.
For hours they drifted to and fro, until a kind Providence sent them into the path of a fishing schooner coming from the Banks. She took them in tow and brought them in to the edge of the traverse, and afterward down to Nimot's Light. They, the fishermen, also assisted them to tinker up the engine, so they came into port bravely under their own power. From that time, friends and friends who had spent a most trying night searching and waiting for them. Capt. Frank Salvador and crew, with the "Miss Maud" power boat, researched all night for them.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lewis have removed to the house on South Main street, formerly occupied by Mr. Stanley Lary.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Oliver will occupy the house on Elm street, now the property of Capt. Manuel Salvador, formerly owned by Mr. Harry Winter.

The management of the Town Hall Theatre announced that there will be no moving picture show next week Saturday evening as Mr. Simeone has denated the Town Hall for the use of the Italian War Relief Fund. The Feature Reel for Saturday, Aug. 3rd, will be Billie Burke in "The Land of Promise".
Other amusements will be made later.

At the Town Hall Theatre on Saturday evening the Feature Reel will be Mary Pickford in "Stella Maris". The showing is interesting and instructive.
Pathe News Pictures, and a Comedy Reel will also be shown on the screen.

the guests over the week-end of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Smith.
Great excitement prevailed at this peaceful summer resort on Tuesday evening, July 16, when a boat chase water. Two men in a boat chased him mense whale was seen spouting in the the men. Several fishermen, who were of the 76 Division Tobacco Fund (Our New England Boys) has just pulled off another big event to raise funds for tobacco for our boys at home and abroad in the form of a big benefit Concert held in the Waltham Theatre, Sunday evening, July 14th.

The Kenberma Improvement Society is planning its first big minstrel show for funds for war work. Dates and data will be given later. It is rumored that there will be some very good amateur comedians.
It is said wild steak is very popular and we are wondering why some of the fishy club fishermen of the Kenberma club didn't get a better price for their catch that while and give us all a chance to try the latest toothsome fare.

CONTRACT OR JOBBING

Something Different for Late Summer

When July inaugurates the season for vacations and women buy the last of their summer millinery, experience proves that they turn their backs on flowers and summery straws. Heretofore they have bought light felt hats, or the heavier straws, like millan, with white trimming, or have even anticipated the natural season for velvet and chosen to wear it out of season. For several summers considerable black velvet has been worn in August. But this anticipation of the season for velvet spoiled their zest for it when fall really arrived.

There is a new order of things this year. Designers appreciated that women wanted for late summer something different from the hats that had gone before and sought velvet because little else was offered them. They have produced some lovely hats of fabrics that are to serve for late summer and between seasons wear and they have proved immediately successful. These hats are made of taffeta or ribbon or georgette crepe or felt veiled with georgette. Their trimmings are odd, flat ornaments, made of materials in the workshop, or embroidery with chenille or silk or braiding with soutache braid. Ornamental pins, having rather large fancy heads, help out in this respect. Besides these fabric hats, turbans made entirely of feathers, and white Milans, wing-trimmed turbans and small hats, swell the number of designs that furnish July and the following two months with their own peculiar millinery.

In the group of hats pictured there are three that are entirely different, represented. At the top is a large hat of gold-colored georgette crepe faced with black panne velvet. Small figures embroidered in black, white and blue silk, make up its decoration. Below it is a hat of taffeta braided with soutache. Navy blue, black and white are the best looking models of this kind. Navy blue taffeta either embroidered, or machine stitched or braided in white, is a great favorite. The third hat is of white yedda braid trimmed with a wide feather band and three small white wings that are an extension of the band. This hat will have ended its service with the last day of August, but the others will last through September or longer.

Make Own Fireless Cooker.
Take a wooden box or a large butter firkin or an old castoff boiler; line it thick with newspaper or asbestos, and then pack with good excelsior or hay, leaving a place for your kettle. Cover well with paper and an old quilt or pillow. It is a help to put your soapstone heater underneath.

Swagger Military Styles in Habits

We just can't get away from the military influence in styles; but it has centered on that portion of feminine apparel that is made to withstand hard wear, as riding habits and service suits of various kinds. There is the military cupe among wraps, but it appears to be an inspiration of other days or other lands—none of our officers and soldiers are going about in picturesque and flowing capes. Whether it came from it is something to be thankful for as an addition to fair woman's wardrobe. It has spirit and grace; lending its "air" to the wearer who knows how to carry it off.

In riding habits and outfits, colors and lines are reminiscent of khaki and olive drab uniforms. Shoes and puttees vie with high boots, and small military caps with regulation riding hats for favor in the eyes of this summer's sportswoman. For midsummer Palm Beach cloth, linen and heavy shantung are offered in place of the substantial weaves in wool that provide habits for other seasons. Besides these there are lighter weight wool mixtures, in khaki color, with almost invisible threads of green and red shot through them, among the most practical of habits since they are adapted to any season.

One of these appears in the smart habit shown in the picture, to be frankly indebted to military uniforms for its lines and details of finish. The breeches are cut on the same lines as those of khaki-clad soldiers and, instead of high boots and riding hat, puttees and a cap are worn, adding strength to the military flavor of a swagger habit. There are two large patch pockets at the left side of the coat and a small slit pocket, for the handkerchief, at the right. The blouse worn under the coat has a high turnover collar with a four-in-hand tie slipped under it.

Coats are full skirted and therefore appear a little shorter than they were, but the length remains the same—that is eight inches above the top of the puttees or boots. Puttees may be regarded as a fad, for they are not as trim as boots and probably not as comfortable, but they make a pleasing variety for women who can indulge themselves in fancies.

Children's waistlines are marked by a belt slipped through eyelets.

The School will open with a large corps of experienced teachers.

SEPTEMBER 26, 1918

The School House is one minute's walk from the Hingham Station. The building has been recently renovated, and is equipped with modern heating and plumbing, electricity and fire escape. At the rear of the building is a spacious playground.

The endowment makes it possible to offer the best educational opportunities at a minimum cost.

In September 1914, the Academy opened with an improved curriculum, and since that time the instruction has begun with a Kindergarten department and has extended through the Primary and Grammar School grades. The courses of education will now be extended through the first two years of the High School, it being the intention of the Trustees to extend the courses of the Academy up to the College entrance, in accordance with the Founder's purpose, as soon as this can be done with justice to the entire student body.
